FASHION SHOWS

Soft Bright. The SS25 catwalks showcased dresses that were both sophisticated and minimalist, sometimes playing on retro codes. While satin dresses continue to be omnipresent on the catwalks alongside immaculate white dresses, sixties mini-dresses with vintage accents are making their own mark and becoming the new must-have pieces. Knit dresses remain timeless: wrap-around or bodycon, they gently enhance the silhouette with softness. Sheer dresses are a new and hugely popular piece, revealing feminine grace under a light veil of fabric, suggesting the lines of the body with delicacy. The SS25 dresses are a clashing mix of eras, from the 20s to the 60s, from minimalism to maximalism, from bohemian romanticism to Greco-Roman draping, with no boundaries between casual and dressy, where often a sequined dress is worn with a windbreaker. The result seems to be that the trend no longer exists, but that each choice reflects the identity of brands that seem a little lost in interpreting the desires of their consumers.

This forecasting report is based on Data extracted from 225 International fashion shows of NY, London, Milan and Paris with 52 000 products analyzed. The trends are organized by visibility (number of looks presenting the trend attribute) and the percentage shows the trend growth compared to SS24 fashion shows.
