FASHION SHOWS

From Minimal Basics to Boho Drama. The FW25 womenswear shows revealed a decline in overall knitwear presence, particularly in classic sweaters, yet the category evolves through contrasting directions: elevated basics and bohemian extravagance. While slim, normcore sweaters and minimalist turtlenecks cater to a refined everyday wardrobe, designers also leaned into rich textures and eclectic flair. Knitwear embraced rustic yarns, boucle, brushed mohair, and fringe, adding depth and visual intrigue. Key pieces included slinky knit dresses, oversized cardigans, and wrap styles with a boho twist, alongside embellished or deconstructed designs. The season's knits balance comfort and craft, celebrating both understated essentials and expressive, artisanal details.

This forecasting report is based on Data extracted from 197 International fashion shows of NY, London, Milan and Paris with 45 000 products analyzed. The trends are organized by visibility (number of looks presenting the trend attribute) and the percentage shows the trend growth compared to FW24 fashion shows. FW25 FASHION SHOWS YARNS & STITCHES

For FW25, womenswear knitwear fuses rustic charm and elevated texture, with yarn and stitch choices adding rich dimension to collections. A focus on fancy yet grounded qualities defines the season, with standout techniques like vrillé knits, duo-tone bouclé, and shaggy fringe or loop yarns offering tactile depth and visual intrigue. Soft mohair, brushed yarns, and fuzzy synthetic blends create cozy, plushy surfaces, enhancing the sense of texture and softness. Even plain knits are elevated with overwashed or felted effects, adding structure and rustic textures. Heritage references remain in classic Nordic patterns that speak to tradition while aligning with modern styling. Detailing plays on fancy embellishments, crochet floral accents, on dresses and cardigans, blurring the lines between craft and couture. FW25 reflects a desire for tactile richness, balancing warmth with aesthetic experimentation - nostalgic and refreshingly new.

FW25 FASHION SHOWS KEY PIECES

For FW25, womenswear knitwear is blending practicality with bold statements. While sweaters see a decline, they are reimagined through slim, normcore silhouettes in plain, minimal designs, or rustic half-open jumpers that nod to vintage highland aesthetics. Knit dresses, by contrast, gain momentum, appearing in slinky longline forms or as boxy sweater dresses that fuse comfort and structure. Cardigans remain a staple with diverse interpretations—ranging from oversized, extraheavy XLs to ladylike cardigan-and-skirt sets. Shaggy or wrap-style cardigans bring a bohemian softness, perfect for layered, textured outfits. Other standout knitwear includes turtlenecks. as an essential for layering, and knitted capes for dramatic flair. Brooches are used to create draped effects for styling versatility. Similary, the continuation of deconstructive approaches explores unexpected cuts, asymmetry, or raw edges that give a modern, artistic twist.
